Year 1998. Isabel, a journalism student, starts an internship at a Galician town's local newspaper. As soon as she arrives, she wills to start investigating in order to demonstrate the knowledge she has acquired, but the position assigned to her is the last one she could expect: writing and managing the obituaries received by the editorial department. The task, which seems boring at first, becomes the kickoff to an investigation that will lead her all across the Spanish geography in the search for an impossible love story.
